

Convicts

The The convict ships 1787-1868 / by Charles Bateson

It was originally published, in book format, in 1959. It tells the story of the transport of prisoners from Britain to Australia from 1787 to 1868. From the use of authoritative sources, such as ships' surgeons' journals, Charles Bateson has been able to reconstruct the many voyages as well as the administrative system behind transportation.

Prisoners of Australia : a narrative

This CD-ROM is a digitised version of the original book, written by a lady with the initials C.A., to the London Committee of the 'British Ladies' Prison Visiting Association'. C.A. was commissioned by Mrs [Elizabeth] Fry to investigate the state of the female prisoners at Parramatta. She was accompanied on those visits by Mr [Samuel] Marsden. Her journal reports are from a Christian perspective and full of rich, descriptive language. The author describes her experiences of what she saw and learnt of the condition of convict prisoners in the Colony of New South Wales around the period of 1836.

Prisoners on board the hulk Phoenix

"Convict Connections Group purchased 6 microfilm reels containing information about the Hulk 'Phoenix' from [State Records New South Wales] SRNSW. They are Reels 819, 820, 821, 822, 1261 and 2720 ... it is the intention of the Group to index these reels. The additional information on this microfilm relates to colonial offences/convictions ... the records are not always chronological, nor the numbers sequential ... The headings used in the index are not exactly the same as the headings appearing on the film ... A section of the microfilm appears to be a type of muster with the name, ship and date of entry given"-- introduction. The State Library of Queensland holds [V. 1]: Index to Prisoners received, 20 August 1825 to 30 January 1837 (an index to SRNSW Reel 819) and [V. 2]: Index to Transportation entrance books, 18 January 1833 to 7 September 1848 (an index to SRNSW Reel 820)
