

COVID-19 update

The health and safety of staff and clients is our top priority

6 April 2020

Bouquets from Police Inspector

Inspector Scott McLaren from the Queensland Police Service has thanked mobilised State Library staff for their recent data entry work, which involved helping to register over 32,000 isolation notices.

"It's been wonderful to see how seamlessly each of you have integrated with the QPS team that have been working on this for the past two weeks. I have been so amazed at the willingness of both the PSC and QPS staff to just invest in this process and get the job done. I would personally like to thank each of you again for all the support you've provided and the astounding number of notices we've been able to process over the past week. Each of you should be extremely proud of the vital work you've done in helping us 'flatten the curve' and reduce further risk of COVID-19 spreading into the community."

Inspector Scott McLaren.

While this work is now over, staff may be asked to help out again, depending on areas of need in the public service. Thank you again your valued contribution, it makes a real difference.

Zoom and privacy

ICT will update the guide on Zoom meetings this week following concerns over security and privacy issues. In the meantime, you should enable additional security settings to protect your meetings, including: setting a password, enabling a waiting room to admit only authorised users, not sharing your meeting ID widely (including posting photos of the meeting on social media), and locking the meeting once it has started to stop others from joining.

Themed days

To help keep staff connected and in good spirits we've introduced themed days on Yammer. Each portfolio will have one day each week to promote a theme, and staff are encouraged to share a thread related to the topic, hoping to inspire others to post and stay connected. Check out today's contributions to Mad Monday.

School holidays

Normal leave arrangements apply for the upcoming Easter holidays; special COVID-19 provisions do not apply.
