INTRODUCTION
STATE LIBRARY OF QUEENSLAND

ABOUT US
State Library of Queensland is the custodian of Queensland’s cultural, intellectual and social achievements. Our historic and contemporary collections inform our programming, public engagement and partnerships. We are a place of experimentation, possibility and inclusion, where knowledge empowers and diversity is celebrated.

State Library is part of a vibrant network of more than 320 public libraries and Indigenous Knowledge Centres (IKCs) throughout Queensland.

2019–20 priorities:
- Strengthen the focus on digital content to meet legal deposit obligations.
- Implement digital preservation strategies and practice.
- Complement our contemporary focus by building our capability in collecting and interpreting rare printed and original materials.
- Celebrate the International Year of Indigenous Languages with a major program of activities.
- Activate our reach and engagement to provide new opportunities to experience our collections and services.
- Partner with local government to realise the potential of public libraries and IKCs.
- Review recruitment strategies to ensure we have the right people with the right skills.
- Deepen our commitment to reconciliation through the delivery of the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander cultural competency program.
- Achieve secure, reliable and flexible digital technology and services that meet our current and future business needs.
- Optimise commercial activities and revenue streams.

State Library's services include:
- Collecting and preserving a trusted record of Queensland
- Encouraging research to deepen the knowledge of Queensland past and present
- Interpreting Queensland stories through exhibitions, events, discussion and debate
- Developing an inclusive library service, addressing diverse needs, strengthening opportunities for the expression of ideas and fostering the appreciation of difference
- Providing access to collections and services in a range of formats and channels, so they are available to all, regardless of geographical location
- Recognising the unique knowledge and culture of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people, and working with communities to ensure their history and culture is preserved
- Advocating for public libraries and partnering with local government to provide Queenslanders with the opportunities to participate fully in the economic, social, political and cultural dimensions of society.

GOVERNMENT’S OBJECTIVES FOR THE COMMUNITY
The Library Board of Queensland contributes to the achievement of the Queensland Government’s objectives for the community, including:

Be a responsive government
Enabling future-focussed people and processes, State Library makes services easier to use by providing welcoming places for everyone, free access to a wide range of information and opportunities for the open exchange of ideas and exposure to different perspectives.

Create jobs in a strong economy
Create jobs in a strong economy by providing all Queenslanders with access to free online learning programs so they can upskill and remain agile throughout their career. Skilling Queenslanders for work by supporting entrepreneurs to create new businesses and enabling current small businesses to transform into digital businesses.

Give all our children a great start
Improving wellbeing prior to going to school through coordination of the First 5 Forever program, in partnership with public libraries, which gives families the skills and resources to develop strong educational foundations for children from zero to five years.

Keep communities safe
Providing welcoming places for everyone, free access to a wide range of information and opportunities for the open exchange of ideas and exposure to different perspectives.
In September, we launched the Meet Me at the Paragon exhibition that showcased the history of Greek cafes in Queensland. These cafes were open all day and traded in most towns across the state in the early part of last century. The Greek community has always understood adversity and the value of hard work, with cafes not only providing employment for migrants but also tasty, affordable food and delicious milkshakes to the state’s growing townships and cities. Like many Queenslanders, I thoroughly enjoyed the onsite and online exhibition which was not only an engaging history lesson but a sensory treat. I particularly enjoyed the replica booth where visitors could browse menus containing images of cafes from yesteryear.

Another exhibition that captured the imagination of Queenslanders, Home: a suburban obsession, won two prestigious 2019 Queensland Heritage Awards this financial year. Launched in December 2018, the exhibition secured the Heritage Interpretation and Promotion Award (presented by the Minister for Environment and the Great Barrier Reef, Minister for Science and Minister for the Arts, the Honourable Leeanne Enoch MP) and the John Herbert Memorial Award (presented by his Excellency the Honourable Paul de Jersey AC, Governor of Queensland).

The exhibition told the story of a married couple who cruised the streets in a Cadillac in the 1960s and 1970s taking hundreds of thousands of photos of Queensland homes, some of which can be found in State Library’s impressive collections. One of the exhibition’s main drawcards was the Corley Explorer, an interactive online tool that allowed Frank and Eunice Corley’s photos to be easily explored.

Such accolades speak to the high standard of State Library’s offer. While it is the state’s leading reference and research library, it offers so much more than books. Its constantly evolving digital presence ensures resources, collections, programs and exhibitions can be accessed in the most geographically isolated towns in the state, providing all Queenslanders with access to its benefits and treasures. I have been immensely proud of the way State Library staff have quickly shifted focus during the COVID-19 crisis. Pivoting quickly to broaden our online offer has meant the people of Queensland have continued to benefit from the extraordinary, and largely free, resources and services of State Library. A sincere thank you to all staff who helped make this a reality.

I would like to extend my gratitude to our valued donors; your continued support is especially appreciated in these challenging times. I also acknowledge the expertise and enthusiasm of the Queensland Library Foundation President Helen Brodie and Foundation councillors.

Sincere thanks to Minister Enoch for her unwavering support of State Library and the significant benefits it provides the people of Queensland.

Thank you also to the Library Board, committee and advisory groups for their contribution and commitment over the past 12 months.

Finally, I want to thank State Library’s leadership team and the diligence and commitment of State Librarian and CEO Vicki McDonald AM who was acknowledged for her significant service to librarianship in the 2020 Australia Day Honours list.

Professor Andrew Griffiths
Chairperson
Library Board of Queensland
Creativity, a central pillar of State Library of Queensland’s vision, took on new importance this year.

As the world responded to the COVID-19 pandemic, we moved quickly to boost State Library’s already substantial online offer in new and creative ways. Award ceremonies, exhibitions and story time sessions all moved online to ensure our visitors could still celebrate Queensland achievements, access curated treasures and celebrate the joy of a beautifully written book.

Membership increased, with visitors keen to take advantage of free ebooks, newspapers, journals, films and courses from home. Despite the impacts of COVID-19 on our service delivery (including the building closure on 23 March), we achieved our customer satisfaction, visitation and cost per visit targets. It was immensely satisfying to know that libraries continued to play a pivotal role in connecting people and communities to meaningful resources and services during times of crisis.

As a trusted public institution, we take our responsibility to document and preserve the state’s contemporary history seriously, and have encouraged people throughout the state to donate ephemera, photos or unusual items that help provide a snapshot of this moment in history so they can be referenced and analysed by future generations. Next financial year we will accept a donation from ABC Brisbane that documents this important event in Queensland history. The Quarantine Quilt is a collection of handmade squares made by people throughout Queensland, depicting their time in quarantine. It was lovingly sewn together by the Queensland Spinners, Weavers and Fibre Artists — a magnificent expression of community resilience and creativity that will take pride of place in our collection.

In February, we hosted Minya Birran, a forum that explored ways to harness the goodwill and energy of the 2019 International Year of Indigenous Languages by posing the question ‘what now?’. Creatives, educators, community workers and those who work in galleries, libraries, archives and museums (the GLAM sector) joined this important conversation about the future of Indigenous languages and their place as a human right. Participants gained valuable skills and tools to incorporate Indigenous languages into their working lives.

State Library’s commitment to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander culture extends well beyond events, exhibitions and developing Indigenous collections. We are committed to ensuring libraries are a place where Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people feel respected and welcome. This year, together with National and State Libraries Australia (NSLA), we proudly developed the cultural competency program, Culturally Safe Libraries, and State Library staff commenced the online training modules.

And just before we moved to remote working, we hosted the Making Meaning: collections as data symposium where we gathered a diverse cross-section of delegates to talk about data and its infinite possibilities. It was a great day for digital innovators and featured influential and challenging speakers from the research, government, digital humanities and GLAM sectors. Coinciding with Open Data Day 2020, the symposium aimed to raise awareness of the potential of collections as data and build a community of practice in Australia — a subject of significant growing interest to all libraries around the globe.

I would like to thank Professor Andrew Griffiths for his leadership and critical support in these unprecedented times. I would also like to acknowledge the members of the Library Board and the Queensland Library Foundation Council — your counsel and support has been greatly appreciated.

Finally, I would also like to extend my gratitude to State Library staff for their resilience and positive attitude during these exceptional times. Your commitment and professionalism have allowed us to continue to deliver outstanding services to Queenslanders throughout the year.

The Queensland Library Foundation (the Foundation) works with donors, philanthropists and corporate entities to support State Library of Queensland’s vision to inspire possibilities through knowledge, stories and creativity.

This year, more than $1.39 million was managed through the Foundation. We sincerely thank all donors and supporters for their contribution in advancing our vision.

Ensuring access to trusted content through the digitisation of State Library of Queensland’s collections is an ongoing fundraising focus of the Foundation. Gifts enabled more than 150 films and tapes to be converted from physical to digital formats, making them discoverable via State Library platforms. Eight donors also collectively contributed $117,000 for the digitisation of The Catholic Advocate newspaper (1911–38). This collection will be made available worldwide on Trove, an online portal established by the National Library of Australia.

Support for Australian writers and writing was provided through the Queensland Literary Awards and black&write! editing and writing program by the Queensland Government, sponsorship, grants and philanthropy. Regional and remote communities are better placed to develop digital literacy and use digital technologies thanks to sponsorship by Telstra for the Deadly Digital Communities program, and a philanthropic gift from professional tennis star Ashleigh Barty and the Barty family.

The Queensland Business Leaders Hall of Fame founded in 2009 by QUT Business School, State Library and the Foundation welcomed six new inductees and celebrated its tenth anniversary. This year’s inductees were Philip Bacon AM, Sir George Fisher CMG (1903–2007), Birch Carroll & Coyle, Evans Deakin Industries Ltd, Springfield City Group: Maha Sinnathamby AM and Bob Sharpless, and Wallace Bishop.

The following projects were made possible thanks to the generosity of the following donors and sponsors:

- Queensland Memory Awards, collectively worth $70,000
- John Oxley Library Fellowship
- John Oxley Library Community History Award
- Letty Katts Award supported by Dr Stanton Mellick OAM, Ed and Professor Jill Mellick
- Mittelheuser Scholar in Residence supported by Dr Cathryn Mittelheuser AM
- Monica Clare Research Fellowship.

Crowd Giving donations enabled the surface analysis of photographs taken by Richard Daintree in the 1870s, and the production of Queensland’s first historic podcast series using State Library collections. Crowd Giving also funded travel and professional development bursaries for two Pacific Island library workers to attend an international library conference at State Library in 2021.

Yaba dhalgay donors contributed to the Minya Birran Indigenous languages forum which discussed the revival and future of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander languages, and their place as a human right.

Five new artist interviews were added to the James C Sourris AM Collection, supported by James C Sourris AM and Marica Sourris.

Siganto Digital Learning Workshops enabled by the Siganto Foundation provided foundational digital literacy and ICT self-sufficiency to students from newly arrived communities.

The Bert and Vera Thiess legacy project, supported by the Bert and Vera Thiess Trust to provide better understanding about the philanthropic leadership of Bert and Vera Thiess.

Making Meaning: collections as data symposium — a State Library initiative which attracted 205 attendees from private and public sectors to hear a range of speakers showcase best practice examples of collections as data.

The Foundation provided donors with access and a deeper understanding of State Library collections and expertise through its series of Heritage Talks and President’s 100 Circle presentations, and the end of year event attended by our Patron, His Excellency the Honourable Paul de Jersey AC, and Mrs Kaye de Jersey. Thank you to everyone who attended these events.

A full list of philanthropy and partnerships is listed on page 28.
